

Waldorf And Johnson Fight Over-Confidence

Regardless of the pregame "favorite" roles which will probably be given Arlington's two local high schools in their coming battles this Friday and Saturday, neither "Tank" Johnson, head coach at Wakefield high, or Bob Waldorf, mentor of the Washington-Lee squad, would emphasize on their respective teams winning possibilities.

Coach Johnson knows he has a potentially good Warrior squad, and should he find a passer to go along with his ground attack, already proven potent, his Green and White could post win number four against but two setbacks. Herndon will enter the contest with a more impressive record, going undefeated to date in four games, one, against Garfield, finished in a 6-6 tie. The only other common foe between the two schools was George Mason, beaten by Herndon by one point, who in turn edged the Warrior 7-6. Gametime is 2:30 p.m. at Herndon.

Following the Herndon contest,

Wakefield runs against three really tough opponents in the George Washington JV on October 25th, Mount Vernon on November 5th and finally the Washington-Lee JV on November 11th. George Washington's JV has lost to the Washington-Lee JV, 14-6 in their first engagement, and play them again today. Mount Vernon is winless in five tilts, having lost to Washington Lee's Varsity 47-6, and will be the first comparison of the strength of the two local clubs against a common foe. The Mounts have a date with Annandale and George Washington of Danville before they meet the Warriors. In their final game, Wakefield will be out to show a vast improvement over last years team when they tackle the Washington-Lee JV's. Boasting a perfect 3-0 record to date with only the George Washington JV game between them and the Warriors, the "Little" Generals should prove the major obstacle in the Southside schools schedule.

Coach Waldorf believes in each game in turn, and never likes to discuss the future opponents until the next game on the slate is in the records. Friday nights opposition will be Bladensburg at 8:00 p.m., and if the past records have any bearing on the outcome of this game, the Generals should win by a comfortable margin. The visiting Maryland club started the year in good form, winning its first two games, but then lost two in a row, the last a 19-0 decision to Gonzaga, in turn beaten by Washington-Lee, 34-13. Should the Generals win this one in a walk, it will be their last breather of the season as their final three games on a 10 game schedule find them first playing Thomas Jefferson here on October 22nd. The Richmond team is undefeated in four games, including victories over George Washington, 28-14, and Hampton, 21-7, the latter to be the Arlington schools opponent the following Friday night in Hampton. Thomas Jefferson tunes up for the Washington-Lee contest in a game with Hermitage high this Friday.

Hampton is another "downstate" squad destined to give the Generals a battle. They have won but one game in four, but have an opportunity to balance their record with games against South Norfolk and Granby before entertaining the local school. Little need be said as to the George Washington classic on Thanksgiving, and though the Presidents currently boast a 4-1 record with games to be played against Episcopal, St. Johns, John Marshall and Mount Vernon before Washington-Lee, little does this does this season record have to bear upon the final outcome of the November 25th date.

WAKEFIELD		Opp.
WHS
6—George Mason	.....	7
22—St. John's JV	.....	0
27—Annandale	.....	0
13—Falls Church	.....	0
9—Garfield	.....	12
—Herndon	.....	12
—George Washington JV	.....	12
—Mount Vernon	.....	12
—Washington-Lee JV	.....	12
77—Totals	.....	19

WASHINGTON-LEE		Opp.
W-L
26—Fairfax	.....	7
18—Northwestern	.....	6
0—St. John's	.....	14
34—Gonzaga	.....	13
0—Portsmouth	.....	14
47—Mount Vernon	.....	6
—Bladensburg	.....	6
—Thomas Jefferson	.....	6
—Hampton	.....	6
—George Washington	.....	6
125—Totals	.....	60